Arkansas' institutions of higher learning have never been more appealing to the public. The salary increase of 25 per cent, approved by the legislature, will provide a more equitable distribution of salaries among faculty members. The increase will enable the university to attract and retain qualified personnel. This is a significant step towards improving the quality of education at the university. Additionally, the increased funding will support research and development, enhancing the university's contributions to society.

Much Interest In Savannah Tax Proposal

President of the state's institutions of higher learning confirmed at the Savannah meeting that the increased funding will enable the university to attract and retain qualified personnel. This is a significant step towards improving the quality of education at the university. Additionally, the increased funding will support research and development, enhancing the university's contributions to society.

The increase in the Savannah tax rate will increase the revenue available to the university, allowing for improvements in facilities and programs. The benefits of this increased funding will be felt throughout the state, as the university plays a critical role in education, workforce development, and economic growth.

Severance Tax Hike Proposed Again

Educators Meet With State Geologist to Discuss Increase in Levy

Distribution of approximately $100,000, which would be used to supplement the severance tax, has been proposed. This additional revenue would be used to supplement the budget, providing much-needed funds for educational programs and facilities.

Proposal Condemned by Officials

An initiative petition that seeks to modify the current law regarding severance taxes was submitted. The proposal would allow for the increased taxation of natural resources, including oil, gas, and minerals. The petition is supported by some, who argue it would generate additional revenue for state programs, but criticized by others, who fear it would disproportionately affect the mineral industry. The proposal will be subject to legal scrutiny before any action is taken.

Arkansas Receiving Tidy Sum From Mineral Lands On State Lands, Tax Records Reveal

Principal sources of severance tax revenues are sand and gravel, which account for 77.4 per cent of the total, followed by limestone and sand, which make up 15.7 per cent. The remaining 7.1 per cent is derived from other mineral sources.

These statistics reflect the importance of mineral resources to the state's economy. The severance tax, in particular, has proven to be a valuable source of revenue for state programs and initiatives. It demonstrates the need for continued efforts to manage and conserve these valuable resources in a sustainable manner.
